

Summary

Printing and Designing for over a decade has allowed me to boast my creative ability and acquire a good knowledge of how to operate laser printers and engravers, stencil cutters and guillotines that are used in both sign and print publishing companies. In the future I would love to operate an offset printing press and be a master at web-designing. Preparing plates for press runs was a role I played in previous employment. Serving in the capacity of an assistant project manager and quality control for large sign installations and job finishing assisted me with improving my organizational ability.
