

Summary

Printing and Designing for a decade has allowed me to boost my creative ability and acquire a good knowledge of how to operate machinery. This includes laser printers, laser engravers, stencil cutters, guillotines that are used in both sign and print publishing companies, wide format printing equipment and more. I'm working at improving my web-design skills and staying current. Pre-press preparation for press runs was a role I played in previous employment. Serving in the capacity of an assistant project manager and quality control for large sign installations and job finishing assisted me with improving my organizational ability.
